				1 Share a time when you appreciated someone after they shared their thoughts and ideas	2 What role does curiosity play in creating a stimulating and engaging thinking environment?	3 How does your empathy help establish a more inclusive and understanding thinking environment?
4 What more do you think, or feel, or want to say?	5 What will make you feel at ease today?	6 What was the last compliment someone made you?	7 How can you empower others to share their thoughts and contribute as equal thinkers?	8 In the past, how did your patience lead to better thinking outcomes for you?	9 Book your spot on the Thinking Partnership Course.	10 Today, wait for someone's signal before replying.
11 What are you assuming that might be limiting your thinking today?	12 If you knew that you possess enough confidence to move forward, what would change for you?	13 What do you want to capture from your thinking today?	14 Your body is the first place you can show appreciation to, what does it mean for you today?	15 What more do you want to accomplish in the time you have left today?	16 What do you think helps people generate open, non-judgmental, and liberating responses?	17 Share a time when you thought out loud, without interruption.
18 What are three things you can do to reduce interruptions throughout your day today?	19 Do you want the people you work with to think for themselves, always?	20 What do you need to do to help people think for themselves? How is that different from what you usually do?	21 Forget about "Active Listening" (article)	22 Thinking Partnership Course, day 1 (link)	23 Thinking Partnership Course, day 2 (link)	24 What do you need today to keep thinking independently for yourself and as yourself?
25 What more do you think, or feel, or want to say?	26 What else do you need to accomplish your outcomes today? What question will meet that need?	27 How far can your clients go in their own thinking before they need yours? And how much further than that can they go?	28 How do you know for sure that what you're about to say will be of more value than what your client is about to think?	29 What have you accomplished today? And what more?	30 If you knew you can give 3 people some form of encouragement... in silence... what would change for you?	31 What do you want to capture for yourself as this month comes to an end?
